Bureau's Program At High School

The Salem Business Bureau, cooperating with five district granges in the annual Farmers Institute Wednesday and Thursday, will have charge of the program Thursday night.

The bureau's program, which will be devoted to music and entertainment, was originally scheduled for the Memorial building. However, bureau officers today announced that the program will be presented, instead, in the High school auditorium, beginning at 8.

School of Oratory, Pittsburgh, will speak. Ralph Hawley, president of the business bureau, will give the address of welcome at the opening session at 10 a. m. Wednesday. John Shelton, institute president, will respond.

The program on Friday and Saturday nights of this week will present a three-act play, "Phillip Forster," in the High school auditorium. The play is being offered to produce records in tunnel inquiry

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Ferry beneath charges that men driven to work in a "tunnel" at Hawk's Nest, W. Va., died by hundreds, a house labor committee subpoenaed records of an FFERA survey of the tunnel workers.

The committee asked the emergency relief administration to forward a report on conditions at Gauley Bridge, W. Va., where many of the tunnel laborers died. The report was prepared by Brower, now with the Florida representative Marcantonio (R.) of the instigator of the committee investigation, said Brower's report would supply valuable information on conditions among those who died in the tunnel.

CLEAR THE SIDEWALKS

Shoveling snow in the wake of a blizzard with the mercury flirting with the zero mark may not be an inviting task, but it is important and under a city ordinance, necessary.

Here and there about the city industrious residents, who have some consideration for their neighbors and for all pedestrians, keep constantly at this task throughout the winter. Others are less considerate and in some cases there is no "man about the house" able to shovel snow off the sidewalks. Whatever the reason, the fact remains that many of the walks in all parts of the city are piled high with snow, to remain there until thawing and freezing result in treacherous ice. Where snow now proves an inconvenience, ice later may contribute to injuries.

School children are compelled to trudge through deep snow or walk in the streets. Men going to work in the shops are confronted by the same handicaps. Most of them prefer the broken paths of the streets to the drifted sidewalks, despite the danger due to traffic. Only a few days ago two men on their way to work were struck by an auto. The danger to school children is even greater.

A city ordinance provides that sidewalks be kept free from snow and ice. Consideration for others, as well as respect for municipal law, should prompt all residents to act. Here is an opportunity to provide small jobs for men not otherwise employed, and for boys in their spare moments.

GOOD KING GEORGE V.

Americans have no royal standards by which to judge King George V. they must employ the standards of their own form of government. According to those standards George V was a great and good leader.

A British version of his place in history is contained in the authoritative biography written by Richard C. Dent and published a few years ago in the United States. "King George," declares Mr. Dent, "was the ideal man to come to the throne when he did. We British people take so much for granted. I wonder if we realize what an achievement King George's reign has been. Thrones were tottering all over Europe when he became king, and yet the British throne grew more secure every day. How did he do it? Charm and integrity of character alone could not have accomplished it. King George has political gifts of a high order, although his modesty may sometimes obscure these from view. I admire King George as a king for one thing above all others—his supreme gift of being able to subject his personal likes and dislikes to his sense of duty. He was in every sense of the word a constitutional monarch."

George V worked hard at the job of being the symbol of British government. Before he became king he worked almost equally hard to prepare himself for the responsibility, under the guidance of his well loved father, King Edward VII. His sons have been reared in the same tradition of responsibility. If an enlightened monarchy truly is the best form of government, Britain has been blessed with a royal family of extraordinary quality—a family whose members honestly feel their responsibility to those whom they serve as constitutional monarchs. Every British ruler since the reign of King William IV has been respected and loved. The present Prince of Wales is a fit heir to the throne.

British grief at the death of George V is genuine and personal. He was proud of the affection his people had for him; it was part of his reward for serving them. In him they saw the best qualities of themselves—steadfastness, patience, honor, integrity and compassion. He was a king among men before he was a king by inherited right. Britain loved him as it loved his father before him and as it will love his son after him. The historians who will write about the reign of Good King George V will have a pleasant task.

O. O. MCINTYRE
NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—This is the oldest's day in the metropolis. The White Haired Era. The youngsters haven't the money for the tonier cafes and night clubs. Or for down front pews at first nights. The swank club memberships have been shucked to the snowy mustached.

A large percentage of the men in silk topers and the ladies in ermine are on the thinner side of 50. There were at least six couples at No. 21 a recent evening, past 60, traveling the gastronomic route right down to the big bobbed bouquet of brandy.

Elmo De Wolfe is a conspicuous example of the elderly type. With snow-white hair, touched up in a green tint at the moment, she is considered one of the smart dressers of the period. Col. Creighton Webb, shouldering the 80s, can make Clifton Webb look to his laurels in full evening attire.

Then, of course, there's the elderly Brummel, Whitney Warren, whose morning, afternoon and evening costumes pivot the passersby along Park avenue. The fashionable tailoring shops and dress-making ateliers report a silver-haired trade they never knew existed.

Not many newspaper publishers have more fun out of their job than Ted Woodward. He is the son of a former West Virginia Congressman and after graduation from college bought a country weekly at Spencer in his native State. He liked the role of country editor so well he bought more weeklies. Today he has a string of twenty. Each is run separately with a local resident editor. Woodward has made all pay during the depression. He lives in New York most of the time now and has acquired a weekly on Long Island, the nucleus of a chain he hopes to link both shores.

Theatrical folk had a chance recently to see Florenz Ziegfeld's daughter, Patricia, grown up. When she left for the west coast she was the gangly, all-knuckles and teeth age. Intervening years have molded a slim, gazelle-like creature with a fluff of bronze tinted hair suggesting her mother in her hop-on-the-arm-of-the-chair days. At first nights and teas, Miss Ziegfeld made quite a stir. She is a head taller than her mother and, while not expressing the star's winsome beauty, is personable, distinguished. There are many striking resemblances to her father. Her stage flair is on the technical side.

Adele Astaire, returning from Britain the first time since her marriage as Lady Cavendish, has proved the O, dear me! of the social season both in Manhattan and Palm Beach. Still the romping hoyden of her Omaha days, the usual lorgnette that goes with acquired titles will never be for her. Until one has heard her at a party recite the four letter dictionary one has only brushed sophistication. At one of the hoop-de-dos the irrepressible mai-about-town Harry Evans concocted a combined charade and theme song in which Lady Cavendish starred. A classic of camouflaged ribaldry, it is now top titter in the drawing rooms.

Incidentally Harry Evans slides out from under the avalanche of Christmas cards to insert this in the public notices of the newspapers: "Wanted, dead or alive, the guy who started this greeting card racket. And if you addicts who sent me pictures of reindeer, angels and Scottie dogs think I'm going to waste good dough breaking out in such sentimental rash you're crazy. Here's thanks for your beautiful thoughts in the cheapest way possible."

Now that Vanity Fair has merged with Vogue, Frank Crowninshield, Vanity Fair editor since its inception, will make a long delayed visit to Europe. He was born in Paris and knows that city and London like a book "Crowie," as he is known to his wide circle of friends, is the father of sophistication in American literature. A Tory in thought, his appeal was naturally limited. But he blazed many new paths and moulded innumerable traditions. In his romantic enthusiasm for art, he was a stimulating factor in developing many new schools.

They wangled me into a derby today. I've tried to avoid the degradation but they wore me down. At its jauntiest angle, I resemble a combination of the 4th vice-president of a Brass Corporation and a reformed house detective.

OUR READERS

CAN'T FIND A HOME

Editor, The News:
How can a city expect to expand if there are not enough homes to care for an ever-increasing population?

And that, my friends, is the situation in Salem today. Apartments as well as homes are as hard to find as a needle in a haystack.

Industries in Salem within the last two years have speeded up production new shops and business establishments have come to town, and as a result, Salem's population figure has risen.

Some of these newcomers have found places to live. Still others obtained temporary living quarters, far from satisfactory. And still new citizens come to town. There are several cases where persons, working here, reside out of town. Naturally part of their pay check goes to out-of-town businesses.

They don't want to do this. It's a case of having to because there is no room for them in Salem. Why don't persons with available funds invest in some new homes or apartment houses? They'd be a sellout, if my guess is right. As a suggestion, a few modern, small type homes may be built at a small cost.

A NEWCOMER

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland
New York City

IT IS rather a common experience to meet somebody who speaks of a small tumor or swelling under the skin. It is usually seen at the wrist or ankle, but may be found over any joint of the body. This sort of trouble is called "ganglion." The old-fashioned way of treating the condition was striking the wrist with a heavy book or other object. Ordinarily the old family Bible, the dictionary or other big volume was used. If accurately struck the blow would smash the tumor and cause its disappearance.

Whenever I think about ganglion I recall a story I once heard. A big, husky farmer had been told about this treatment. He was interested because his son had a ganglion on the wrist. The man applied the treatment so vigorously that not only did he smash the ganglion, but also he broke the boy's wrist.

Cause Not Known

This method of treatment is no longer advocated. There is always the danger of damage like that I just mentioned. Besides, violent destruction of the tumor and escape of its contents may lead to inflammation and possibly infection of the surrounding tissues. In that event the tendon sheaths of the fingers or toes may become involved with permanent stiffness.

I am often asked the cause of this form of tumor. Although the actual cause is not known, it is probably the result of some chronic irritation. Ganglion is usually first noticed after some strain, exertion or blow upon the hand or ankle. For this reason strain is believed to be the underlying factor in the production of this harmless tumor.

At times the victim can definitely recall having felt something "give" at the joint. This is followed by puffiness and swelling around the tender spot. The lump increases in size, becomes firm and pushes its way into the tissues under the skin. The skin over the swelling is movable and its appearance is not changed.

Operation Necessary

Often the patient may never recall having a blow or strain. In fact, the tumor may be present for many months before it is detected. Suspicion is first aroused by pain and discomfort in the joint. The pain is increased upon motion and decreased when the joint is kept at rest.

If you notice such a swelling at the wrist or another joint, take advice about it at once. Remember, a ganglion may grow to large size and become very uncomfortable. Then it interferes with the movements of the joint and is disfiguring as well.

The only cure for ganglion is operation. Unfortunately, the word "operation" arouses a feeling of terror in many persons. But the operation for ganglion is very, very simple. It need cause no alarm. It is what the doctors call a "minor operation." It can be performed in the doctor's office. A local anesthetic is used and the tumor is removed without any pain or discomfort.

INVESTMENTS

In the nature of things, a savings account is to be looked on as an investment and should be compared with other investments. In any investment, there are at least two things that should be considered, and they are: first, its safety, and second, its liquidity. It goes without saying that an investment may be safe and still not be as liquid as might be desired, while another investment might be fairly liquid and still not have all of the elements of safety.

"Ride with the Five Star Final."

YOU'LL SEE WHY I PICKED A PLYMOUTH!"

HALF A TON of Philadelphia newspapers... Walter Dombrow loads his big, beautiful Plymouth for the nightly trip of 20 miles... delivering final editions to 30 Philadelphia neighborhoods.

"NO CAR FORME without 100% hydraulic brakes!" Walter Dombrow has never been in an accident. "I want safety all the time!"

"I GET 18 MILES to the gallon of gas in city driving," says Mr. Dombrow; "22 on the road."

"I'M SOLD ON PLYMOUTH," declares Walter Dombrow, World War veteran who now drives a 20-mile newspaper night route... six nights a week. "My job punishes a car, but this 1936 Plymouth can take it!"

A CERTIFIED INTERVIEW WITH WALTER DOMBROW, PHILADELPHIA, PA.

THIRTY NEIGHBORHOODS around Philadelphia expect their newspapers when Walter Dombrow starts on his night route with the final editions. Twenty miles to go... six nights every week.

"I never have to disappoint them... because my Plymouth never fails."

"Ride that route with me some night, carrying half a ton of finals, and you'll see why I picked Plymouth."

Safety is just as important as reliability to Mr. Dombrow. "I wouldn't even ride in a car without genuine hydraulic brakes," he says.

His earlier model Plymouth cost him far less for upkeep or repairs than any other car he has ever owned.

"And my new Plymouth," he declares, "is giving me 18 miles to the gallon of gas in city traffic... 22 miles out on the road."

All we can add is: "Look at All Three." Drive them... compare them on safety, economy, reliability and comfort.

Before you buy any car, ask your Chrysler, Dodge or De Soto dealer to let you drive one of the beautiful 1936 Plymouths.

Cleveland Writer, Here for Joint Club Meet, Presents His Views; Lauds "The Informer"

tures Marsh predicted that they would travel on a "fairly even keel" and that the tendency in directing was leading toward finer movies through better editing. He also believes that there will be infinitely less dialog in future motion pictures because, he explained, the appeal of a moving picture is to the eye primarily and the appeal to the ear is only secondary. Action and much of it is necessary to make a good moving picture since the action appeals directly to the sight of the spectator.

Discusses Recent Films
Marsh gave his opinion on various films of recent months during a question forum at the conclusion of his talk. Some of the films which he discussed are: "Our Daily Bread," which has not appeared here, an example of the best expression of the Russian technique of editing; "Lives of a Bengal Lancer," seen her some time ago, a good film because it was an action picture; "Ruggles of Red Gap," light comedy; "The Wedding Night," "Imitation of Life," "The Lost Patrol," and "The 39 Steps," Gaumont-British production.

Marsh is not in favor of color or third dimension, that of depth in films, since that is going back so far to the realistic and legitimate stage productions, that one "might just as well go to see real stage plays." Music should be used in films only when it forms an appropriate background or expression for the film, he contends.

A short musical program was presented prior to Marsh's address, opening with piano selections by Miss Margaret Kibridge, who played "Rigoletto" (Liszt) from the opera of that name and "Nocturns" (Grieg). Miss Martha Baile sang two numbers, accompanied by Miss Kibridge. "Look Down, Dear Eyes" (Howard Fisher) and "Little Man" (Herman Fink). William Frew of Lisbon entertained with two clarinet selections, "Fantasy," for clarinet, from "Rigoletto" and "Serenata" (Moszkowski). He was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Raymond Bartholomew.

Tea Is Served

Tea was served following the program. The table was attractive with a center decoration of lemon yellow daffodils, iris and pansies in crystal bowl. Tall lemon yellow tapers in three branch crystal holders lighted the table.

The regular meetings of the three clubs are planned as follows: Salem Music club, Jan. 27, at the home of Mrs. Charles Cornwall on Cleveland ave.; Book club, Feb. 3, a colonial tea at the library; Travelers club, Jan. 28, at the library.

Members of the Book club will be privileged to bring a guest to the "Martha Washington" tea at the library in two weeks.

Lydia Bible Class Has Dinner

Valentine appointments made the tables attractive last night for the 6:30 coverdish dinner given by members of the Lydia Bible class at the English Lutheran church.

The regular meeting followed the dinner. Mrs. Allen Helmick leading the devotions. Mrs. Helmick gave a paper on "The Christian Life." Mrs. James Heinemeyer and Mrs. Howard Smith entertained with a vocal duet.

Mrs. C. W. Moul of Detroit, former teacher of the class, was guest of honor and other guests included Mrs. George Fronius of Alliance.

The next meeting will be Feb. 24.

Children and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Elba Johns, who live south of Salem near the Lisbon rd., surprised them at their home Sunday when they celebrated their 55th wedding anniversary.

Johns, Roy Johns and his family live near the old home and Milan and his family make their home at the family homestead with Mr. and Mrs. Elba Johns, who have lived there their entire married life. Mrs. Johns, formerly Miss Luella Hoffman, was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Hoffman of Georgetown and Mr. Johns was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Abner Johns.

Mr. and Mrs. Johns are very active and enjoy good health. Mrs. Johns was 75 last Saturday and her husband celebrated his 77th birthday on Jan. 7. He is a member of Salem grange and both belong to the Highland church.

Baseball Team Entertained

Cards, games and stunts were sources of entertainment during the evening. Prizes went to Christine McArdor, Anna Phillips, Delbert Windle, John Hilliard, Woodrow Dennis and members of team No. 2.

A delightful two-course lunch was served later in the evening by Mrs. Sheen, assisted by Mrs. Harold Asty, Mrs. Joseph Smith and Mrs. Harvey Doyle, Jr. Guests were seated at one long table, attractively decorated in gold and blue. A center decoration was of blue and gold flowers and at either end were blue candles in gold holders. Favors were little pin cushions for the girls and a photograph of the team for the boys.

STATE BUDGET BILL JUMBLED

House Finance Committee, After Voting For Measure, Decides To Expunge Action

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, Jan. 21.—A move by administration leaders put a revised state budget bill in a jumbled state today.

The house finance committee, which voted 13 to 7 Monday to recommend passage of $90,284,326 measure decided to expunge its action from the record.

Chairman Julian Schwelmer (D, Putnam) ruled that the action suggested by House Speaker J. Freer Blittinger, Democrat, put the bill back in committee just as the senate approved it.

The house had cut $133,937 from the senate measure. Some finance committee members frankly expressed themselves as "up in the air" over the status of the bill after a morning of bickering.

A successor to Long, a governor, congressman and other officials were to be chosen. Nomination is equivalent to election.

The saucy and debonair George Arliss, in his latest picture, "Mister Hobo," showing at the State tonight and tomorrow, plays the role of tramp. This picture was made in England and presents an English supporting cast, Viola Keats, Gene Gerrard, Frank Cellier and Patrick Knowles.

Set In France
The setting is France. The story portrays a genial tramp who really loves his vocation. Reaching an es-banking family they notify the Rothschilds. The family, after learning he is not a relative, give him a large check and dismiss him. But the fact that he bears the famous name is valuable to Cellier, a shady banker who is seeking to unload his bankrupt bank onto a new president. The banker offers the presidency to Arliss which he accepts. Here he learns that the bank is trying to swindle his new found friend, Miss Keats.

Has Exciting Time
Arliss, with the money given him, plays the stock market and through his cleverness causes a crash. He becomes fabulously wealthy, saves the girl's property, unloads his money and heads for the sunny south, again just a hobo.

The second feature on the bill is "Freshman Love." Warren Hull, Patricia Ellis, Frank McHugh and George E. Stone make up the cast of a story of romance in a college. him to be a member of the famous

Few Changes Expected When Football Rules Committee Meets Soon

"Jock" Sutherland, Coach of Pitt, to Be Acting Chairman of Meeting in Pittsburgh; Goal Post, "Slow Whistle" Are Questions

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 21. — The rule committee of the American Football Coaches association decided today to meet in Pittsburgh February 1, with apparently little possibility many important changes will be up for consideration.

Dr. John B. "Jock" Sutherland of Pitt will be acting chairman in place of Lou Little, of Columbia, who is ill in New York.

Football officials here were of the opinion the proposals for moving the goal posts back from the end zone to the goal line and elimination of the "slow whistle" will be about all the major questions to get official attention from the coaches' committee.

Old Timers Win From Trojans In Overtime Battle

The Old Timers climbed into second place in the Class A city basketball league last night when they handed the Trojan quintet a 29 to 27 defeat in an overtime contest at the Memorial building. It was the Old Timers fourth win in league competition.

With only seconds remaining in the overtime frame, after the contest had been deadlocked at 27-all at the close of the regular playing time, Andy Filip, Old Timer center, dropped the ball through the hoop to give the veterans the victory.

Even Terms

The teams played on even terms during the first period but in the second frame the Trojans jumped to the lead and at the intermission were out in front, 12 to 10.

The Trojan quintet furthered its advantage in the third quarter and held a four-point edge, 22 to 18, at the opening of the final period.

Rallying in the last frame, the Old Timers pulled up to a tie at the close of this quarter and then snatched the game out of the fire in the overtime period.

Schaffer connected for three field goals and two free throws to lead the Trojan cagers while Sanders and Drakulich with 10 and nine points respectively topped the Old Timer scoring.

HOOSIERS TAKE FIFTH STRAIGHT

Triumph Over Wisconsin, 26 to 24, to Hold Lead in Big Ten

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—It must be that the Hoosiers of Indiana, bowling along out in front in the Big Ten basketball title race, get a kick out of winning games the hard way.

The pace setters accounted for their fifth straight conference triumph last night, a 26 to 24 decision over Wisconsin, and for the fourth consecutive game had to employ stalling tactics during the closing minutes.

Indiana led by 15 to 9 at half-time, but slowed down late in the second half and the Badgers took a 23 to 22 lead. The Hoosiers regained the lead on four free throws, two of them by substitute guard Joe Platt, then hung on to the ball for two minutes to make the slender margin last out.

16-Point Margin

In its five victories, Indiana, built up a total margin of only 16 points. Michigan was beaten by six points. Northwestern and Chicago held the leaders to three-point decisions, Minnesota and Wisconsin fell by two-point margins.

Michigan climbed into a tie with Ohio for third place at three victories and two defeats, by conquering Iowa 13 to 7, in an overtime thriller at Ann Arbor. The Hawkeyes outscored Michigan in field goals, 11 to 10, but the Wolverines capitalized on free throws to gain a 27-all tie at the close of regulation time. George Rudness and Chelso Tomagno fired in baskets for Michigan in the overtime.

Iowa, which won its first two games, both at home, suffered its third straight defeat, all on foreign floors.

Minnesota achieved one of the prize upsets of the season in defeating Northwestern 30 to 29, in a hair-raiser at Minneapolis. It was the Gophers' first victory in five Big Ten starts. George Rocco, one of Minnesota's gridiron heroes, led the surprise attack with 13 points. The defeat was Northwestern's second in four games.

Pirate Outfielder Ill With Pneumonia

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 21.—Lloyd Warner, outfielder for the Pittsburgh Pirates, was seriously ill with pneumonia today, but his physician reported there was no immediate cause for alarm.

The physician, Dr. Leonard C. Williams, described his condition as satisfactory, "considering the nature of the illness," and said the crisis was due today or tonight. Previously Warner's condition had been described as "critical."

WIFY COX WINS GOLF PLAY-OFF

Rallies Late in Match to Down Wild Bill Mehlhorn in Tourney

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 21.—Wifly Cox proved today a seven on a par-four hole should never discourage a golfer.

Cox had such a hole yesterday and still beat Wild Bill Mehlhorn, Louisville, Ky., in a play-off for $750 first money in the Sacramento open golf tournament.

The Bethesda, Md., professional suffered a seven on the 431-yard fourth hole after hooking his second shot into a hedge. He came back on the 545-yard thirteenth to hole a 75-yard approach for his eagle.

Mehlhorn, tied with Cox at the end of 72 holes Sunday, struggled along almost even with the former sailor to that point and although he tried gallantly thereafter, doing his best to sink an ace at the snort eighteenth, he never caught up.

The play-off ended with Cox shooting a 74, two over par, against 77 for Mehlhorn whose putter frequently failed him.

Cox made victory doubly sure by holing a 25-foot putt for a deuce on the par three eighteenth.

Wild Bill sent his tee shot on the 145-yard hole a 12 foot of the pin but could not sink his first putt.

8A and 8D Teams Win Junior High Contests

Lou Brouillard Having Little Luck In France

PARIS, Jan. 21.—Lou Brouillard, the blocky swatter from Worcester, Mass., is having little luck in the land of his ancestors.

For the second time the former welter and middleweight world title claimant has failed in an attempt to belt the middleweight crown from Marcel Thil, of France, generally recognized as its rightful possessor.

Some weeks ago, Brouillard lost a decision to the aging Thil after a rally in the late rounds. Last night he lost again, on a foul in the fourth round of the match that was scheduled for 15.

Brouillard was warned twice for butting in the third round. When Thil fell to the floor in pain after receiving a low blow in the fourth, the three judges unanimously declared Brouillard disqualified and Thil the winner on a foul.

Some 40,000 spectators shouted boos and catcalls, and some tried to storm the ring.

Brouillard weighed 154½, to Thil's 158½.

Undeclared Bulldogs Will Be Columbiana County Opponent; Massillon Will Be Big Six League Foe

Back in the victory column once more after their sensational triumph over Alliance last week, the Salem High school Quaker basketball team will take to the foreign courts this weekend when they journey to East Palestine Friday night for a Columbiana county contest with the undefeated Bulldogs, and on the following night entertain Massillon High's Tigers in Northeastern Ohio Big Six league game at the High school gymnasium.

Taking to foreign hardwoods for the first time since their opening game of the current season against Boardman, the Quakers invade the Adamson clubhouse at East Palestine seeking their third Columbiana county victory and their fifth win of the season.

The Bulldogs have received a verdict in their five games to date against teams of none-too-stellar caliber. Including a win over Alumni, East Palestine has defeated Rochester, Pa., Boardman, Columbiana, and Wellsville.

Behind the consistent scoring of Tom Nedelka and John Trombitas, the Salem Rumanian cagers coasted to a 43 to 34 victory over Alliance in a Rumanian league game at Alliance Saturday.

Nedelka scored ten points and Trombitas nine during the contest. A one-point lead held by Alliance at the close of the first period was cut down by the Salem five during the second frame and at half-time the local Rumanian quintet was out in front, 16 to 12.

The Salem cagers clinched the victory in the third frame when they scored 20 points and held Alliance to two.

WALES IS KING; GEORGE V DIES

World Joins With England in Mourning Ruler's Loss

Magdalene's church here late in the day to rest temporarily before the altar, as did the bodies of his mother, Queen Alexandra, his brother, the Duke of Clarence and Avondale, and his youngest son, John.

The church, only 600 yards from Sandringham house, is connected with the royal residence by the footpath over which the late King George and his queen walked on their way to and from worship.

The youngest son of King George and Queen Mary is buried in the church.

The body of the late monarch will be removed privately to London, to lie in state, probably in Westminster hall. Interment will take place at Windsor, just west of London, on the Thames, and seat of the traditional royal residences.

King George probably will go to his last resting place in a vault there beside the bodies of his father, King Edward VII, Charles I and Henry VIII.

Neighbors Mourn

Here in Norfolk, near the bleak coast 100 miles northeast of London, the neighbor-subjects mourned the passing of the country squire, sportsman, church-goer and family man they had known for years.

Elsewhere in the empire, it was King George's devotion to duty, which inspired the British people through the long, dreary days of their greatest war and subsequent depression, which was sorely missed in these days of international tension.

The sovereign, declining gradually for days, passed on to a peaceful end, unconscious in his last moments.

Knowing that death was near, the royal family remained close to the sick room throughout the long, sad evening.

Just before midnight, physicians summoned the family to his majesty's side. The Archbishop of Canterbury, long a friend of the king, gave a benediction.

In the great white chamber, overlooking the Norfolk country side, were Queen Mary, the Prince of Wales, the Duke of York, the Duke and Duchess of Kent, and Princess Mary—the princess royal and wife of Earl of Harewood.

The king's third son, the Duke of Gloucester, was absent. A severe cold kept him in Buckingham palace in London.

Queen Breaks Down

Queen Mary, whose sturdy self control had kept her calm during her husband's brief illness, broke down only at the last. She wept as the strength of the man whose partner she had been for 43 years ebbed slowly and his heart action ceased.

Within the sick room, now become a death chamber, the queen turned from her husband to her eldest son for support.

The Prince of Wales, who automatically became king at the moment of his father's death, comforted his mother in that hour of greatest grief, just as he had through the ominous hours immediately preceding death.

The royal family, conversing in broken, hushed tones, slowly walked from the room. Its lights then were extinguished.

Queen Mary newly become the queen mother, retired weeping to her own bedroom nearby, where her only daughter, the princess royal, and the Duchess of Kent attempted to console her.

Later the queen telephoned news of the death to the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester at Buckingham palace, the Duchess of York at Windsor, Queen Maud of Norway—King George's sister—at Oslo, and the Duke of Connaught, uncle of the king.

The royal physicians issued their last bulletin:

"Death came peacefully to the king at 11:55 p. m., in the presence of her majesty the queen, the Prince of Wales, the Duke of York, the princess royal, the Duke and Duchess of Kent."

"(Signed) Willans, Hewett and Dawson."

A youth riding a bicycle, with a dim oil lamp flickering before him, brought a copy of it down the darkened drive to the jubilee gate, the entrance to the royal grounds near the garage and servants' quarters.

Bulletin Posted

Without dismounting, he delivered the case to a servant. Slowly, the announcement was removed from its old brown leather holder.

The gatekeeper walked solemnly across the drive and in the light of two great lanterns posted the bulletin, proclaiming the passing of the ruler of the world's greatest empire.

The chiming of the Sandringham church clock echoed in the distance after striking half an hour after midnight. Only the wail of the wind through the elms along the drive disturbed the silence, as villagers read it in silence and turned away.

Sir Frederick J. Willans, Sir F. Stanley Hewett and Lord Dawson of Epsom, who signed the last bulletin, had issued also the first on Friday. It told a startled empire that his majesty's heart weakness must be viewed with disquiet.

The burden of his silver jubilee celebration last year, the death early in December of his sister, Princess Victoria, and his insistent attention to heavy state duties contributed to his end.

In the last two days, the monarch was in a state of semi-coma, save for brief intervals when he was able to recognize his queen and to sign yesterday the document creating a council of state to assume most of his duties until death.

At the end, he suffered no pain. In the 26th year of his reign, King George succumbed at almost the same hour as his father, King Edward VII, who died in 1910 at 15 minutes before midnight.

King George's death followed by almost exactly 35 years that of his grandmother, Queen Victoria. She died on Jan. 22, 1901.

Accession Machinery Moves
The monarch's demise set into motion automatically the machinery carrying on the long line of English kings.

The elaborate, traditional rituals and ceremonies with which Britain installs her sovereigns called the new king to London to meet the privy council for its oaths of allegiance.

Parliament was summoned this afternoon under the act requiring it to assemble after a monarch dies.

Although the former Prince of Wales immediately became king, precedent indicated he would not be crowned formally until after the year-long mourning period had closed. He is the first bachelor king since 1760.

With any name he pleased open for his adoption, it became virtually certain the new sovereign would be King Edward VIII. He has always signed himself Edward P. and affixed the simple word "Edward" to a message to the lord mayor of London, communicating the news of his father's death.

King George's second son, the 40-year-old Duke of York, became heir-presumptive. The duke's 9-year-old daughter, Princess Elizabeth, became second in line of succession to the throne.

Following her in the line were the Duke of York's second daughter, Margaret Rose; the Duke of Gloucester, the Duke of Kent, and the latter's infant son, David.

WORLD MOURNS BRITAIN'S LOSS

the monarch's passing was relayed by throbbing tom-toms by saddened natives who thought of the king more as grandson of the "great white queen" than the British emperor.

Wall Street Sees Boomlet As Result Of Bonus Payment

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Rapid progress of the bonus through both branches of congress has brought Wall street prophecies of a boomlet in retail trade and automobile sales.

This stimulus, observers say, would come about through possible spending by veterans which is expected to amount to at least $1,000,000,000.

While this is the going estimate of the extent to which the veterans would cash baby bonds, analysts think it possible that the total cashed might considerably exceed this figure, especially should general business improvement keep confidence at a high pitch.

It was noted that in 1931 a substantial part of the bonus went into the payment of old bills and for necessities.

Since then, however, trade and industrial recovery has in many instances resulted in renewed confidence. Old bills have been paid off and many "necessity" wants have been fulfilled.

Eddie Cantor Target Of Extortion Plot

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 21.—The Examiner said today Eddie Cantor, wealthy screen comedian, was the target of a recent extortion plot which threatened his five daughters unless $5,000 were paid.

The Examiner related two extortion letters were received at the Cantor home in Beverly Hills on successive days several weeks ago. The first demanded $5,000 or else.

The second instructed Cantor to take $5,000 in an old shoe box and place it himself beside a mailbox in a certain corner in Los Angeles.

Cantor turned the letters over to federal and local authorities.

His daughters were reported under guard in the east.
